

The Big Questions

Dr Steve Kumar

We are living in the darkest day of human history. What used to be good is now bad, what used to be right is now wrong. False is true, holy is unholy. Virtue is now vice. Once we believed in the Holy Word, now we believe in Hollywood. God is methodized. Faith is psychologized. Moral is socialized. Christianity is humanized. Bad ideology and false philosophy dominate our world today. In the name of tolerance, we promote deviation. In the name of education, we teach relativism. In the name of science, we advocate materialism.

As we stand in these challenging times the big questions are still with us. We are in the dark regarding the Big questions. What is True? What is Right? Who Am I? What is my Hope? A Chinese scholar said he could write the biography of the Western man in 3 words "Hurry, Worry, and Bury." Many search for answers in Crystal Balls, Astrology, Medium, and Fortunetellers. A graduating student said recently "I feel like I am leaving the university with a bag full of marbles in my hand. They don't seem to fit together, they are more like unrelated marbles in a bag."

Life is too short for shallow thinking. We must face the big questions and discover the answers. It is my firm conviction many who reject the Christian faith do so on superficial ground. If we dig deeper we will be amazed to discover how intellectually satisfying the Christian faith is.

To reject Christianity you must offer a better view of Reality, a valid ground for Morality, an adequate base for Value, an objective view of Truth, and a Rational view for reason.

Light received brings light, light rejected brings night. When we reject the light of Christ we live in a world of darkness.

In Christ my
Faith is much stronger,
My mind is much clearer,
My heart is much calmer,
My Hope is much brighter.
